

The sun was high in the sky in Goiky, giving the day a lovely atmosphere. Two female sticks, one a red match and the other a pencil, were sitting by each other. The two were inseparable best friends, in fact some contestants would believe that they were more than just friends considering how much friendship they gave each other. The duo usually just shrugged that off as them just teasing...besides they both were just best friends, nothing else right? Blaugh, I'm just rambling again, I need to get back to the point and what Pencil and Match are doing right now.

Pencil and Match were looking around with light smiles on their faces, "Like, I love how quiet it is." Match says, striking up a conversation with Pencil "I like how quiet it is too." Pencil responded. Pencil moved her hand slightly closer to Match's right hand, she had noticed this and looked away "What?" Pencil chuckled as Match rubbed the back of her head with her left hand. Pencil decided to tease Match more by directly putting her hand on Match's, if Match could blush she would be bright red. The two friends looked away from each other while keeping their smile on their faces. However in the midst of all this, Match could have sworn her friend's hand was twitching.

Before Match could ask if Pencil was alright, the combined sound of rubber and wood stretching could be heard as all of a sudden...Pencil and Match grew larger! Pencil took her hand off of Match's with a bit of panic "What's happening?" she asked as she observed her growing hands. Instead of Match paying attention to her hands, she was paying attention to her feet which, unlike her hands, were slowly growing larger and wider. Unlike if she were to look at her hands, this appeared like her feet were just growing. Match got up "Like...Pence-pence? I think my feet are like-..." she began as she looked over at Pencil...before she realized that an odd amount of sky was behind her friend.

Match's thoughts were confirmed as she looked down and realized that A. her and her friend have grown to a large size and B. their feet were now larger. "...Did we like-..." Match began to ask "We grew Matchy!" Pencil said with a smile. The two began to marvel at their continually growing size as their fear and confusion was replaced with happiness while hearts metaphorically appeared above their head. "Uhh?" Pencil and Match heard a familiar female voice call out below them, the two looked down to see Bubble looking up at them nervously. An idea crossed Pencil's mind as she looked over at Match "You thinking what I'm thinking?" Pencil asked, Match took a moment to realize what her friend meant, "Like, yes!" Match smiled before they looked down at Bubble with a smirk.

"Loike...what's going on?" Bubble asked nervously, Match and Pencil sat down on the ground, their feet now reaching up to their face height wise. It didn't take long for Bubble to realize what they were going to do. "OH NOIYO!" Bubble exclaimed as she tried to run away before Pencil and Match simultaneously put their foot up to Bubble, sandwiching her in between the two's feet. Pencil looked over at Match with a smile as Bubble struggled to escape, soon a pop was heard as Match and Pencil's soles fully hit each other. "Guess Bubble couldn't handle it." Pencil chuckled "Like, yeah." Match chuckled as they continued to grow.

After a few more moments of growing, Pencil pieced together what caused the growth to happen in the first place and as a result she began to shower Match with attention. Hugs, rubs, anything that would show affection, Pencil did so to accelerate her and her friend's growth. Soon, the two friends were big enough to escape Earth's atmosphere, thankfully due to budget cuts they were able to breathe in space, so with a spinning hug, Pencil and Match jumped off of Earth and into space. Due to the size of their feet the earth practically jumped due to the impact. Pencil and Match allowed themselves to continue growing as they held hands.

Pencil and Match looked deeply into each other's eyes as the stars gave a beautiful atmosphere to the current situation. The two 'friends' lowered their eye lids as their smiles grew wider. It was like a dream come true to the both of them, the most important and biggest thing in the world (besides their feet) was now each other. Match opened her mouth, ready to say something she just realized to her best friend, and with a deep inhale Match closed her eyes and said:

“We’re like, HUGE, Pence-Pence!”